STEWART'S VIRGINIA SPEECH.

SOME EXTRACTS SHOWING HOW HE SMATTERED THE CAMPAIGN LIES.

A Complete Refutation of Every Allegation Made.

Space does not permit a full report of Stewart's magnificent effort at Virginia City, but we make a few extracts which every man in Carson who has been misled by his maligners ought to read. In speaking of the

CHINESE QUESTION he said:

The most cruel thing which Fair has required from his recently purchased coyotes is the discordant howl that I am in favor of Chinese. The fact remains that everyone of Fair's tools is willing to swear and pledge his honor that I am pro-Chinese, and that I advocated the naturalization of Chinese pagans. I pity the abject meanness of the attempt to distort my record on the Chinese question.

HISTORY OF THE DEBATE ON CHINESE NATURALIZATION.

On the 2nd day of July, 1870, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the Senate, by unanimous consent, agreed to vote for a bill to regulate the naturalization of white men. Such an agreement in the Senate is regarded as sacred, and has never been violated since the formation of the Government. Charles Sumner, Senator from Massachusetts, about ten minutes before the time agreed upon to take a vote upon the bill under consideration, offered as an additional section the following:

"That all Acts of Congress relating to naturalization be and the same are hereby amended by striking out the word 'white' wherever it occurs, so that in naturalization there shall be no distinction of race or color."

The vote was taken, and Mr. Sumner's amendment extending the naturalization laws to the Chinese was adopted by a vote of 27 to 22. Mr. Edmunds and all those he could influence, voted in the negative. If they had voted in the affirmative, according to their convictions on the merits of the proposition, the vote for Chinese suffrage would have been nearly unanimous.

SENATOR STEWART DEFEATS CHINESE CITIZENSHIP.

I opened the debate and continued it until 11 o'clock on the night of the 4th of July, when a vote was taken on the reconsideration of the vote adopting Mr. Sumner's amendment. The motion to reconsider was carried by a vote of 27 to 14—nineteen Republicans and eight Democrats voting in the affirmative, and fourteen Senators, most of them Mugwumps, who subsequently followed Greeley, voting in the negative. This result was achieved by legitimate argument. The most difficult task we had to perform in order to secure the grand result was to disabuse the minds of Eastern Senators of the impression created by the violent harangues of brutal demagogues on the Pacific Coast advocating mob law and inhumanity to the helpless Chinese coolies. I told the Senate frankly that I was the friend of the Chinese, and had done all I could to protect them from the violence of the mob and the cruelty of the barbarian, and that the good people of the Pacific Coast were as much opposed to brutality to the Chinese as the people of the East. They then referred me to the Burlingame treaty, which stipulated for Chinese immigration. I told them that we were not opposed to Chinese immigration, but we were opposed to the importation of Chinese coolies, and I explained to the Senate that all Chinese came as coolie laborers and not as immigrants, and should be excluded. I further explained that the Chinese in this country were coolie slaves, and if naturalized their votes would be at the disposal of their slave masters; that if the naturalization laws were extended to the Asiatics they would substitute in the Pacific States and Territories pagan despotism for free government; that American civilization—including free schools, free churches and free men—could not exist on the Pacific Coast if the electoral franchise were extended to the hordes of Asiatics then here and to those to be thereafter imported. After two days of the most exciting discussion, the United States declared against the barbarous rule of the degraded Chinese coolies.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE HAPPENED. McEwen, Ellis, Cassidy and every other unscrupulous slanderer has taken delight in garbling these portions of my argument which declared against brutality and recognized the principles of humanity in dealing with the Chinese already here to deceive the people and misrepresent my position.

If I had adopted the method of the demagogue and indulged in vituperation against the poor slaves who have been brought here by the Six Companies and other slave masters, who have failed to refute the charges brought against the Pacific Coast of brutality toward the Chinese, my arguments against Chinese suffrage would have been ineffectual. The Chinese would have been enfranchised, and the whites would have been driven from their homes. Because I used honest and effectual argument, and succeeded in defeating Chinese suffrage and rescuing this country from Chinese rule, the emissaries of James G. Fair are now attempting to destroy me by gross, malignant wicked and false misrepresentations.

Suppose when the great debate of July 2d and 4th was inaugurated Nevada had been represented in the United States Senate by the cheek of Powning, the doubtful loyalty to either the North or South of Ellis, the financial cupidity of Cassidy, or the stolid imbecility of their chief, James G. Fair, who can doubt that Chinese suffrage would have been legalized, and American civilization blotted out from all the States and Territories of the Pacific Coast?

DEMONEZITIZATION.

Mr. Stewart gave a full history of the manner in which the silver dollar was demonetized by substituting the words "trade dollar" for "standard dollar" in the lists of U. S. Coins and how the friends of silver, even Gen. Grant, were deceived as to the purpose of the bill. Continuing he said:

When the mistake of fraud was discovered I was the first to call attention to the outrage. During the months of July and August, 1876, I wrote and published many communications to the New York Herald, The Washington National Republican, the Cincinnati Commercial and other Western papers, denouncing the clandestine mode in which silver had been demonetized.

I have continued from that time until now to write, speak and in every way protest against the conspiracy to demonetize silver and thereby double the obligation of contracts, enriching the bondholder, and enslaving the masses. Last year, when by the machinations of Wall Streets, through its trusted agent, Grover Cleveland, it seems certain that the Jones-Bland Act, of 1878, providing for the coinage of not less than two or more than four millions of silver a month would be repealed and silver utterly destroyed, I wrote and published 50,000 copies of a pamphlet on the silver question, which was extensively circulated and republished in newspapers throughout the United States, and the friends of silver gave me credit, for rendering material aid to them in their cause.

THE CRY OF THE HOUNDS.

Notwithstanding all this, Fair's entire pack—the little dogs and all, Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart—howl with one accord that I voted for and am in favor of the demonetization of silver. And this they call honest political warfare and gentlemanly criticism of the public record of a United States Senator. The morals of such men should be improved by the example of Annanias, and their methods of fair dealing would put to shame the most treacherous Apache that ever camped on the trail of a pioneer.

THE EMMA MINE CHARGES

were disposed of by producing a receipt in full from Lyon for $50,000 paid him by Stewart for his mine, and a history of the subsequent attempt of Lyon to blackmail him relative to the suppression of his pamphlet and the refusal of Stewart to pay a dollar of hush money.

THE ATTEMPT AT OSTRACISM.

What motives actuate my detractors, who urge that I have no right to be here? Is it possible that Powning, Cassidy, Ellis, Deal Keating, Garrard, and their confederates, are so conscious of their own inferiority to me that they have no hope of sustaining themselves in this State unless they can banish me from their midst? From their wild ravings and absurd howlings regarding me being here, it would seem that my presence alone is sufficient to unnerve their ambition and deprive them of all hope of success.

Christopher Columbus Powning is the discoverer of the fact that I am an alien, and not to the manner born. You will be astonished at the remarkable intuition of this youth when informed that he made this discovery twenty-six years ago, while I was laying the foundation of our new State and he was mewing in his nurse's arms on the Liverpool docks. George William Cassidy is nearly if not quite so precocious as his illustrious rival for the United States Senate, Mr. Powning. He learned that I was not a resident of Nevada when he was playing the role of impecunious "chipper" about the faro banks of Virginia and Gold Hill, while I was building quartz mills and practicing law throughout the whole State. Whether Colonel Ellis learned that I was a non-resident of Nevada while he was acting as a rebel bushwhacker in Price's army in Missouri, or after he excused himself from that service and was fleeing for safety to the loyal State of Nevada, I am not fully advised and therefore cannot state. How W. E. F. Deal learned that I did not belong in this State I am at a loss to imagine. I certainly taught him no such nonsense as that while he was clerking in my office in Virginia City. As to R. P. Keating, I will forgive him. His anxiety to have me out of the State has already made him sick, and so upset his nerves as to render him wholly irresponsible.

GARRARD PHOTOGRAPHED.

The most patriotic and enthusiastic individual in this State engaged in the hopeless task of trying to banish me, is a specimen of oleaginous senility in Carson, commonly called Major Garrard, who receives a gratuitous subsidy from the Government (termed a salary) of $5,000 a year for superintending the Mint, when there is no Mint to superintend. The arts of this old fossil challenge the admiration of all the tramps and bangers in the United States. He toils, neither does he not spin, yet the stomach of no epicure in the State is lined with fatter capon than his. His ability to retain and such the public test is unexampled. Neither the Republican nor the Democratic party have been able to wean him from it for an hour. His appetite for public pap is insatiable, and his capacity to hog it all and crowd his smaller fellow-swine out of the trough is much admired by Carson.

THE ANIMUS OF THE ENEMY.

Having disposed of each and all of the slanders which have come under my observation, I reiterate the charge that every one of my defamers, from Fair down to Garrard, is making this unjustifiable and disreputable fight against me for the sole purpose of hiding from the public gaze the unholy war which Grover Cleveland, the pliant tool of Wall street, and his dumb ally James G. Fair, have waged, and are continuing to wage, against silver as money. They dare not submit to the candid judgment of the people of this State the action of the Democratic Administration in closing our Mint and depreciating the price of silver, sanctioned as it is by our Democratic Senator. They are alarmed at the exposures I have made of the cruel treatment they have inflicted on the miners of this State. They have no hope of defeating me but by detraction. Their machinations will come to naught. The people of this State will not be deceived by gross and lying abuse of me, instigated by the money of James G. Fair. The attempt to rob me of my reputation by the manufacture and publication of falsehood and slanders will recoil on the promoters of the infamous scheme.

RESPECTS TO SENATOR FAIR.

I have done with the "supes" in this infamous play. Let James G. Fair, the manager, come forward and justify his conduct. Let him explain why he has betrayed the trust confided in him by the people of this State. Let him explain why he has not rendered an account of his stewardship. Let him explain why he is expending money in the circulation of lies and slanders
